

CONTENTS

Preface and Introduction
Preface	7
Introduction	9
The material	9
Research on the “Bactrian era”	9
Geography	11
Map 1. The Hindukush and Northern Afghanistan	12
Map 2. Afghanistan and adjacent regions	13
The plan of the present volume	13
1. The dated documents
1.1. Dates and numerals in the Bactrian documents and inscriptions	15
Table 1. Year-dates in documents and inscriptions written in cursive Bactrian script	16
1.2. The Bactrian calendar	21
1.2.1. The dating formula	21
Table 2. Names of months and days in Bactrian documents and inscriptions	22
1.2.2. The day-names	23
1.2.3. The month-names	25
Table 3. Bactrian month-names in comparison with those of some related calendars	27
1.2.4. The workings of the Bactrian calendar	28
1.3. The epoch of the Bactrian era	30
1.3.1. The evidence of the Tochi valley inscriptions	30
1.3.2. The evidence of the Bactrian and Arabic documents	32
Table 4. Summary of the payment of taxes by Mir, Bab, Qār wāl and Miham	34
1.3.3. The family of Bek	37
Table 5. Family tree of the Bek family	37
1.3.4. The era of Ardashir	40
1.3.5. The Bactrian era and the Kushan era	42
1.4. Conspectus of documents and inscriptions dated in the Bactrian era	44
2. The undated documents
2.0. Preliminary remarks	47
2.1. Historical and prosopographical evidence	48
Table 6. Letters from the time of the Kushan-shahs	48
Table 7. Letters associated with document C (380 CE)	49
Table 8. Links between the groups ba–bh and ca–ci	49
Table 9. Keraw Ormuzdan the kadag-bid , fl. 380–422 CE	50
Table 10. The conflict between Hormizd III and Peroz, 457–459 CE	51
Table 11. The reign of Peroz, 457–484 CE	52
2.2. Palaeographical evidence	53
2.3. Linguistic and orthographic evidence	60
2.4. Application of the dating criteria	64
Figure 1. The date of document aa	65
3. Conclusions
3.1. Summary	81
3.2. List of Bactrian documents and inscriptions in approximate chronological order	82
Appendices
Appendix 1. The Tochi valley inscriptions in the Peshawar Museum (François de Blois, Harry Falk, Nicholas Sims-Williams)	85

1. ITAB	85
1.1. ITAB — Arabic text	85
1.2. ITAB — Bactrian text	86
2. ITB	90
3. ITAS	91
3.1. ITAS — Arabic text	91
3.2. ITAS — Sanskrit text	94
4. ITSB	94
4.1. ITSB — Bactrian text	95
4.2. ITSB — Sanskrit text	97
Appendix 2. The Pahlavi letter Doc. 129 of the Khalili collection (Dieter Weber)	99
Figure 2. Khalili Doc. 129	100
Table 12. Palaeographic comparison between Khal. 129 and Berlin 30 etc.	104
Table 13. Preliminary dating of the scripts of the Pahlavi documents	108
Appendix 3. The Zoroastrian calendar: new evidence from Achaemenid Bactria (François de Blois)	109
Appendix 4. Calendar years and tax years in early Islamic Bactria (François de Blois)	113
Appendix 5. Radiocarbon dating of a sample document	115
Table 14. Radiocarbon calibration report on two samples from document dd	115
Appendix 6. Time-line	117
Appendix 7. Corrections to Bactrian documents from Northern Afghanistan (Nicholas Sims-Williams)	131
Abbreviations and References
Abbreviations	133
References	133
Plates 1–4 (Tochi valley inscriptions and Pahlavi letter Doc. 129)	at end
Plate 1a. ITAB — Arabic
Plate 1b. ITAB — Bactrian
Plate 2a. ITB
Plate 2b. ITAS — Arabic
Plate 2c. ITAS — Sanskrit
Plate 3a. ITSB — Bactrian
Plate 3b. ITSB — Sanskrit
Plate 4. Pahlavi letter Doc. 129	