

Table of Contents

Acknowledgements.....7

Preface..... 11

Chapter 1: Introduction: The Emergence of the Image of Vienna
as the City of Music, Medicine, and Immorality.....17

AMERICAN VISITORS IN THE 1920s AND THEIR REPRESENTATION OF VIENNA AND AUSTRIA

Chapter 2: Dorothy Thompson and her Viennese and American Contacts in Vienna in the Nineteen-Twenties and Early Nineteen-Thirties.....31

Chapter 3: Vienna and Austria as the Destination of Music Lovers and Writers in the Early 1920s.....51

Chapter 4: Vienna as the City of Medicine and Music:
William Carlos Williams's Stay in Vienna in 1924 and its Fictionalization in A Voyage to Pagan.....85

Chapter 5: Impressions and Contacts of American Writers in Vienna in the Late 1920s and Early 1930s.....97

NORTH AMERICAN WRITERS AND FOREIGN CORRESPONDENTS IN AUSTRIA IN THE 1930s

Chapter 6: Networks of Anglophone Foreign Correspondents in Vienna and in Central Europe in the Early 1930s.....115

Chapter 7: Wright Morris and his Inspiration through his Stay in Vienna and at Burg Ranna in Lower Austria and his Transatlantic Contacts.....145

Chapter 8: The Appeal of the Viennese School of Psychoanalysis and Hilda Doolittle's Sessions with Dr. Freud.....161

Chapter 9: The Austrian Civil War and Its Aftermath as Perceived by Anglophone Visitors.....177

Chapter 10: Kay Boyle and the Representation of Alpine
Austria(ns).....191

Chapter 11: American (and British) Visitors in the Indian Summer of Austria in the 1930s.....209

Chapter 12: The Catastrophe of the Anschluss as Perceived by Anglo-American Observers and their Support for Austrian Emigrants.....245

VIENNA AND AUSTRIA AS PRESENTED IN THE 1940s
AND 1950s

Chapter 13: Joseph Freeman and his Depiction of Vienna and Austria.....261

Chapter 14: Aftermath: Post-War Vienna and Austria in Reports and in Fiction by Anglophone Writers.....	275
Bibliography .....	293
Index of Persons .....	317
Index of Subjects .....	321

