

Table of Contents

Ernst Fuchs and Ophthalmology in the United States

Preface by Helmut Wyklicky †

Introduction

1	Autobiography . . . . .	23
2	Family Background and Training . . . . .	45
3	Professor at the University of Lüttich/Liège 1881–1885 . . . . .	131
4	The Foundation of the Second University Eye Clinic in Vienna (1883) and the Appointment of Ernst Fuchs (1885) . . . . .	175
5	Relaunching the Clinic: Teaching and Research Activities as Chair at Vienna’s Medical Faculty, 1885–1915 . . . . .	217
6	The 1889 Textbook: Eighteen Editions in German up until 1945. Translations and Worldwide Resonance . . . . .	259
7	Fuchs’s Description of Newly Discovered Anatomical Structures and Pathologies and Their Histological Substantiation . . . . .	289
8	The “Fuchs Library” . . . . .	391
9	Ernst Fuchs at 70: Academic Ceremonies, Honours, Homage	403
10	Ernst Fuchs as an Innovative Ophthalmic Surgeon and Inventor of New Instruments . . . . .	433
11	Highlights of Fuchs’s Lecture Tours: United States, Japan and China . . . . .	461
12	Sunset, Legacy and Afterlife . . . . .	511
13	Catalogue of Published Works . . . . .	527
	Instead of an epilogue: Ernst Fuchs and His Time . . . . .	543

Appendix

I Bibliography . . . . .	553
II Bibliography of Works about Ernst Fuchs in Chronological Order . . . . .	613
III Figures, Captions, and Photo Credits . . . . .	620
IV Index of Names . . . . .	627